CROATIAN INFANTRY HAS SEIZED FIUME

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Bastie, Oct. 25.—Croatian infantry, attached to the Austro-Hungarian army, has revolted and seized the city of Fiume, said a dispatch from an Austrian source today.

Fiume is an important port on the Adriatic Sea in Hungary. It has a population of about 40,000. Before the war it had a big commercial trade.

LONDON APPROVES WILSON'S REPLY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Oct. 25.—President Wilson's last reply to the German peace overtures has met with hearty approval here.

"President Wilson has cleared up the uncertainty regarding an armistice which would give the Germans time to reorganize their armies and strike again," said the Telegraph today. "It is a remarkable document and meets with hearty approval everywhere."

The Times calls it an admirable message, adding that "it reveals that the American view is identical with ours."

"The note meets with the approval of all the Allies," says the Chronicle, "and leaves no loophole."

Lord Lansdowne, who has been strongly before the public on account of "peace letters" to British newspapers, called the note "strong and prudent."

"It means unconditional surrender for Germany," was the comment of Lord Beresford.

Arthur Henderson, famous labor leader, declared that President Wilson has "clarified our hopes as to a peace program."

"President Wilson's note means that Germany must place herself irrevocably in the hands of the Allies," said the Daily News. "If Germany accepts the war will be over in less than a week. Otherwise, the conflict will drag through the spring and summer. The Allies must clear the obstacles to peace by accepting President Wilson's points."

The Post called the American note a "masterpiece of diplomacy," adding:

"It rivets the German government to unequal acceptance of the four peace principles of President Wilson. If an armistice is not yet compatible with German honor, we must keep on hammering away."

"Mastery, unequivocal and candid," was the characterization of the Daily Express.

ANDROKOPPOULOS GOT EVEN.

Prussian Captive Act As Boot-black for Him.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army North-west of Verdun, Oct. 25.—Private Peter J. Andropoulos, who used to shine shoes in Ware, Mass., wanted several years for a chance to revenge himself on Prussians and finally got it near Grand Pre the other day.

Andropoulos was commended for gallant conduct in the Greek army. In the first Balkan war he was in command of twelve men stationed at a border town. The day before hostilities broke out a German officer attached to the Bulgarian army approached with forty Bulgarians. He demanded that Andropoulos surrender his forces.

"Over my dead body," was the answer.

The German turned away, saying, "don't want to soil my hands on a dirty Greek dog."

Andropoulos was proceeding towards the front the other day when a badly frightened Prussian emerged from the roadside where he had been concealing himself.

"Kamerad!" he cried, approaching Andropoulos.

"Just the man I'm looking for," said the Greek. "My shoes are pretty muddy. Get down and soil your hands by cleaning them, you dirty German dog."

The Prussian complied with haste while Andropoulos' comrades looked on and laughed. When the Prussian had finished his job he was sent to the rear.

BRITISH TAKE 100 GERMAN GUNS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the British Army on the Western Battle Front, Oct. 24, (Night).—The British captured between 8,000 and 9,000 German prisoners in the fighting today and yesterday.

Tonight the British are within a mile of the important city of Landrecies and are only a mile and a half from Le Quesnoy.

Robertsart, Beadignies, Maing, Le Paux, Chisignies, Somlain-sur-Ecaillon, Monchaux and Ruesnes have been taken. More than 100 guns were captured from the Germans.

The Germans are resisting stubbornly but were powerless before the irresistible rush of the British.

The British have advanced throughout the whole fighting.

There was a desperate struggle around Monchaux and at several other points. In these combats the British performed some of the most remarkable feats of the war. There were many deeds of great individual heroism in the face of difficult terrain.

Landrecies was the scene of a famous counter attack against the Germans during the retreat from Mons in 1914.

HOUSE AND BENSON ARE IN FRANCE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 25.—Colonel E. H. House, President Wilson's closest political adviser, accompanied by Admiral W. S. Benson, have arrived in France. Colonel House will represent President Wilson in all diplomatic matters growing out of the existing war situation. Admiral Benson will represent the navy in the various conferences which are to deal with the armistice request of Germany, which has been referred to the Entente by President Wilson.

In all conferences that may be held Colonel House will deal with matters purely political; General H. Bliss will handle the purely military matters, and Admiral Benson will deal with naval questions. Admiral Benson's presence will insure that the navy has adequate representation by a full ranking officer as he is the ranking admiral of the navy.

Colonel House was accompanied by Gordon Auchincloss, who will act as his secretary, and Joseph C. Grew, formerly first secretary at the American legation in Berlin. Mr. Grew will assist Colonel House and will be his adviser on matters of exclusive diplomatic procedure.

Annoyance that Colonel House was route to Europe was given to the newspaper correspondents when he sailed a week ago with a request that it be withheld until he was safely landed in France. The party reached a French seaport yesterday afternoon and proceeded immediately to Paris, where Colonel House had arranged for conferences that were to begin today.

In sending Admiral Benson to speak for the United States on matters of naval moment, Secretary Daniels selected the best informed naval officer in the service. As chief of operations the admiral has been responsible for the great work which the American warships have been doing ever since the nation entered the war.

As the ranking admiral of the navy, whatever he says will carry great weight in the coming conferences. His selection for the present task was in no way due to any desire to supersede Vice Admiral Sims, commanding the American fleet in foreign waters. The latter has performed wonderful service but had been detached by other naval officers. Admiral Benson is the ranking officer of the navy.

Cronin, to close their places of business until further notice on account of the epidemic, were before County Judge Arnold at Poughkeepsie Thursday night after being arrested by Sheriff Conklin and Chief of Police Mott of Beacon on information issued by the district attorney, and were held in $1,000 bail each for the next grand jury. They all waived examination.

AUSTRIA ACCEPTS WILSON'S TERMS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Zurich, Oct. 25.—Austria, in her reply to President Wilson's separate note to that country, states that the Austrian government will negotiate with the Austro-Czechs, according to a report received here today.

In his note to Austria President Wilson pointed out that the United States has recognized that a state of belligerency exists between the Czechoslovaks and the Austro-Hungarian and German nations and has recognized the nationalistic aspirations of the Jugo-Slavs. Therefore, said the note, the president cannot accept mere autonomy of these peoples as a basis for peace, but is obliged to deal with these peoples as a separate and distinct nation.

REVOLTING GROATS KILL 100 SOLDIERS

Army Doctors to Fight Grip.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

MORE INFLUENZA VACCINE RECEIVED

Any Physician in City May Obtain Supply at McBride's Drug Store on Wall Street for Use in His Practice.

Another supply of the influenza vaccine has been received by the board of health from the state health department and same is now at the supply station at the drug store of Commissioner Charles L. McBride on Wall street, where it may be obtained by any physician in the city without charge for his private practice. The board obtained a supply Monday night and opened a vaccine station at the Knights of Columbus Home on Broadway, which is still being maintained. Any one may apply there for inoculation free of charge during the hours the station is open. These hours are from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7:30 to 8:30 in the evening.

This additional supply may be used by the physicians in their private practice at the homes of their patients.

Those who have not been inoculated should have it done at once. Those inoculated have felt no ill effects from it.

ARMORY HOSPITAL WILL SOON CLOSE

Only 21 Cases Will Be Left After 13 Are Discharged Today—Other Hospitals Now Receiving All New Cases.

The Emergency Hospital at the armory is slowly nearing its end. It is expected that 13 patients will be discharged today leaving but 21 cases in the hospital. As the name implies, the hospital was started in an emergency and was never intended to be a permanent institution. Only one patient was admitted yesterday as the other institutions in the city were able to care for the new cases.

It is expected that the public will co-operate as far as possible as many of the volunteers are played out and it is the aim of the authorities to close the hospital as soon as conditions are normal. Some patients have been sent to the hospital who can receive good treatment at home. It is unfair to cast this added burden upon those who are already doing such splendid work.

There are but three wards now, two having been closed. This will relieve the work of the volunteers so that now they will only have to work every other day instead of every day. But some of them are so attached to their patients that they insist upon coming every day. One of them, Mrs. Fannie T. Stewart of Port Ewen, is taking four children, all of one family, to her home so that they may be under her constant care until they entirely recover. Those women who are trained nurses, Mrs. William P. Glass, Mrs. John Rodie and Mrs. A. D. Pardee, who have not practiced their profession since they have been married but who are giving up their time to this work, might also be mentioned.

Major Chandler of the U. S. Medical Corps, while in New York yesterday to report to Governor Whitman about his release from the State Department of Police, learned from the authorities there that Kingston is one of the three cities in the state that are getting out of the epidemic in good shape. Buffalo and Utica are in sorry straits and in some of the cities the epidemic is increasing. The good news about our city is naturally a source of gratification to Kingstonians. Major Chandler was also informed that the Kingston armory is the third one in the state to be used for emergency hospital purposes.

All the patients, under the watchful eyes of the volunteers, were doing well this morning. The article in this paper the other day in which it was stated that the patients here receive just as good, if not better care, as in the other hospitals had its effect at least upon one man. When brought to the armory yesterday he was told that there was room in the other hospital but he refused to be transferred. This faith in the efficiency of the Emergency Hospital is gratifying but it is an overstatement that this is an overstatement and that the workers are but human and are becoming tired out.

Orders to Isolation Wells.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Oct. 25.—An official German army order directing the 108th Brigade to "isolate all wells" in territory which is about to be given up has been taken by French army officers. The order was signed by General von Heek, of the 108th Brigade. It also demands "more method and less haste" in the destruction of property by the personnel of the brigade.

His 49th Burial Service.

It is as well from every standpoint that public funerals have been forbidden in this city during the influenza epidemic, for it would have been impossible for some of the churches to provide the clergy or the time for holding them. The Rev. John J. Hickey stated at noon today to a Freeman reporter that he had just officiated at the 49th burial service in St. Mary's Cemetery since the epidemic began.

ITALIANS BEGIN NEW OFFENSIVE

Austrians Already Thrown Back Several Miles—Drive Timed to Meet Political Conditions in Austria-Hungary, Where Revolts Have Broken Out.

The long expected Italian offensive against the Austro-Hungarians is under way today between the Brenta and Piave rivers and, according to official advices, the Austrians have been thrown back several miles.

The assault, which began yesterday, centered about Monte Grappa, near the point where the battle line bends westward from the Piave. The Italians swept forward to the Ornic river in the first rush, capturing Monte Solarola and parts of other dominating mountain summits which the Austrians had fortified. Islands in the Piave and villages were seized.

The new Italian drive, which comes after a long lull on that front, was timed according to internal conditions in Austria-Hungary.

Revolts have broken out in Bohemia and the Croat soldiers have mutinied and seized the important Hungarian city of Fiume. Unrest and war weariness among the Austro-Hungarian people have reached a keen pitch and the country is on the point of being invaded from the Danube side. Austro-German forces that were trying to hold up the Serbian advance are now retreating in wild disorder towards the southern frontier of Austria-Hungary, hotly followed by the Allies.

It is supposed that the new Italian offensive is under the direction of Marshal Foch, who is the guiding genius of all the Allied armies in Europe. The Italian army is under the direct command of General Diaz, who stopped the Austro-Hungarian advance on the Piave.

The fighting is taking place in extremely difficult mountain country where, it is likely, winter storms have already set in.

AMERICANS KEEP GERMAN BUSY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 25.—(Noon).—American troops today improved their positions along the left flank by important, local operations. They were especially successful in the vicinity of Grand Pre.

The enemy is concentrating his forces around Grand Pre farm and the Boche batteries are becoming very active from Cunel to Grand Pre.

The Yanks today were completing the mopping up of the remaining machine gun nests along the eastern edge of the Bois-de-Ormont.

"It is reported that the enemy has completed a new defense line from Briegney (four and a half miles northeast of Grand Pre) east through the Bois-de-Briegney and thence north of the Bois Burgonne. It is understood that the Germans now plan to retire behind this new line and are massing heavy artillery in the Borgonne Woods.

The Yanks are keeping the Germans so busy on the Argonne-Meuse front that the enemy divisions have not sufficient time in which to take their customary relief. German flying shock divisions are being forced to return to the line after only six days' leave.

Wilson Appeals to Oklahoma.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 25.—An appeal to the voters of Oklahoma that they adopt the woman's suffrage amendment which they are to vote on on election day was framed by President Wilson today in the form of a telegram to the Democratic and Republican state chairmen of that state. The president states in his telegram that "it is my deliberate judgment that adoption of this amendment is a necessary part of the program of justice and reconstruction which the war has convinced the nations of the world that they should undertake in the interest of justice and peace."

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

The Stroller Thinks There Should Be a Closed Season on Note Writing—Politics Quiet, But All That Is Necessary Is to Vote Right.

Washington, the father of his country, is famous in history as the truth teller; Lincoln as the rail splitter, while Wilson will undoubtedly be known as the great note writer. This fact reminds one that the great Democratic slogan this season is "Stick by the President," but the general expectation and hope is that they won't try to emulate his example in his favorite pastime of writing notes. The whole country is back of President Wilson in prosecuting the war to a successful conclusion, but the only successful conclusion is the surrender of the German armies and their laying down their arms. A closed season on notes should be declared. The only note the German recognizes is the note of might, and we are giving him plenty of that. "Ghee, but the old town looks lonesome," writes Constant Reader, and adds that with the epidemic many familiar faces are missing from the streets, and even politics have taken a drop. No one seems interested in the fact that there is an election coming within a very few days, but then you don't have to devote much thought to election matters this season; all that is necessary is to go to the polling place and vote a straight Republican ticket and you will have done your duty as an American citizen.

The hope is generally expressed by the doctors and undertakers that the epidemic is on the wane, and it is a fact that many of them are worn out by the unusual hours they have been obliged to work. This city has been fortunate in one respect and that is that all of the undertakers have had a good supply of coffins on hand. It is rather a gruesome joy, but the fact remains that the big wholesale houses in New York are unable to fill orders for coffins, but these up the worst is over. The epidemic is on the run and so is the Hun, and soon two evils will cease to exist.

THE SATISFACTORY ANSWER.

There is an old story of a warring Persian king who took revenge on a young enemy, not by blinding or maiming him, but by cutting him off from association with his own sex and compelling him to work at the loom and the spinning wheel among female slaves. The result aimed at was achieved, the proud young warrior eventually becoming a weak, non-militant, womanish creature. This story, whether well founded or not, has a certain interest in connection with the assertion that American boys are in danger of being "feminized" when taught only by women in the public schools during the transitional and plastic period from childhood to adolescence. Our policy in this particular has been unfavorably contrasted with that of the Germans who have "worked on the principle of non-feminization in their educational systems."

Whatever valid objection may be raised against women teachers for boys who have passed the age of 12 and entered the formative period of youth, the question as to whether the present generation of young Americans has been to any extent "feminized" in school has been very satisfactorily answered by the inspiring story of their behavior and achievement on the field of battle during the past few months. A Danish war correspondent, lecturing in Copenhagen the other night, declared that what America has accomplished since Pershing landed in Europe was marvelous and that the American commander-in-chief had created in France, "The mightiest organization the world has ever known." Obviously, there is nothing feminine in the youthful, human material Pershing employs.

THE DEER SEASON.

The "big game" season is at hand, but, with the exception of deer, there is little big game left outside of the national forests where there has been extra protection and breeding has gone on uninterrupted. The policy of establishing game sanctuaries as well as forest preserves was adopted too tardily for large results at an early day in the multiplication of the stock of big game in general, but thorough official effort in most of the States a large measure of success in the protection of deer has been achieved. Strict obedience to the game laws has come slowly, but the number of hunters willfully disregarding them is now relatively small.

It seems almost incredible that in a thickly populated a country as the United States there should still be an annual kill of some 80,000 deer during the open season, yet such are the published figures. Inevitably there has been an enormous waste of venison in the past due to early killings in August and September when the carcasses were likely to spoil in large part before proper use could be made to them. The stopping of such waste has been due to the efforts of the Biological Survey and the conservation commissioners of the various States. Few States now permit deer hunting before October, and in consequence it is counted on that the venison properly preserved and eaten this year will save about ten million pounds of beef, mutton or pork. Most of the thirty-five States which have an open season for deer now do not permit killings until October or November, and several, including Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, not until December.

Seventeen of these thirty-five States now permit the killing of bucks only, this policy of saving the does—the breeders of the race—as well as the fawns having been adopted by one or two additional States every year. It is obvious, however, that this law is not, if indeed it always can be, strictly kept. Many a hunter shoots and brings down a deer leaping through the brush before he knows whether it is a doe or a buck. In not a few sections of the country there is a growing sentiment not only against killing deer out of season but against "section" or "jack-hunting" as unsportsmanlike. There are various methods of taking the deer at a disadvantage and increasing the kill in the regions of lakes "jacking" is done from the water at night, a lantern being partly covered so as to keep the softly padded canoe in shadow and throw strong light on the shore, thus revealing the unsuspecting deer as they come down to drink and rendering them an easy prey.

In spite of the calculations of meat saved through the autumn's harvest of venison, it is only reasonable to suppose that the kill will be smaller than usual this year owing to the fact that two millions of our young men are in France and perhaps as many more in the home cantonnements, including, of course, a very large percentage of our practiced sportsmen. These are likely to find more deer to kill than ever when the war is over, but there would be practically no deer at all to kill now or later had we not adopted enlightened game laws. But for the enforcement of these laws and the growing sentiment supporting them, this noble game would long ago have been virtually exterminated.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"I never pay old debts; I simply forget them." "And your new ones?" "Oh, I let them get old."—Boston Transcript.

"Everybody really ought to see Shakespeare." "That's one reason, I take it, why so many don't go."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I'm told I talk in my sleep." "Good idea! If a lot of us could do our talking that way it would be some daylight saving."—Washington Star.

"Billy boasts of always going to the bottom in anything he undertakes." "Good gracious! and I've just accepted an invitation to go out rowing with him."—Baltimore American.

When daylight saving began—"Gee, whiz," said the impudent office boy, "I wish I was on the night shift on Saturday night. Them fellows will get paid for an hour they won't work." "Well," said the boss, "anything unusual about that?"—Buffalo Express.

Taking No Chances.

There are, of course, anecdotes about General Pershing going about, all of them to his credit, it need hardly be said. But this is one which General Pershing himself is fond of telling, and it is always much relished by his hearers. It happened when the general was on the Mexican border. A regiment was marching by when it met a small, ragged Irish boy holding tight to a donkey, which had become fractious owing to the noise of the regimental band. It was all his small master could do to hold him. As the men swung by some body in the ranks called out: "Say, kid, what are you holding your brother so tight for?" "Because," replied this Irish lad, "he sees you guys, and I'm afraid he might enlist."—Christian Science Monitor.

A Canoeur.

A good story is told by the dean of Carlisle. It concerns a clergyman who, taking occasional duty for a friend in one of the moorland churches in a remote corner of Cumberland, was one day greatly scandalized on observing the old vergier, who had been collecting the offertory, quietly abstract a half-crown before presenting the plate at the altar rails.

After service he called the old man into the vestry and told him, with emotion, that his crime had been discovered.

The vergier looked puzzled. Then a sudden light dawned on him. "Why, sir, you don't mean that old half-crown of mine? Why, I've led off with he this last 15 year."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Old-Fashioned Way.

The young hopeful of four years had been a source of continual vexation and trouble all through the meal, and at its finish a woman friend turned to the child's mother and said:

"If your boy belonged to me I shouldn't stand so much of his nonsense at meal times. I should give him a thrashing."

"But," said the mother, "you can't spank the poor little fellow on a full stomach."

"No," said her friend, "but you can turn him over."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Hot and Hard Shot.

"Did you say these peas were from your own garden?" asked the summer boarder.

"Yes, sir," replied the farmer. "Picked 'em myself early this morning."

"Is it necessary to shoot them when you pick them?" inquired the boarder, removing a piece of solder from between his teeth.—Exchange.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Janitor Richard Dawe has just received a letter from his son, Lieutenant R. C. Dawe, somewhere on the battlefield in France, enclosing a photo of a captured German soldier. The photo had been presented to the lieutenant by the German. The German is a young man and in his picture wears a happy smile as though glad to have been captured. Janitor Dawe also has another son, Leroy, somewhere in France.

Thursday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock a troop train passed through Kingston. Before the train arrived the police department received a telegram from Ravenna stating that there was a demented soldier on board that they were going to leave in Kingston when the train arrived. The health board was in session at the time and Chief of Police Wood took the matter up with the board. It was decided that as New York was only three hours away and as Kingston had no facilities for caring for a demented person at the present time that Health Officer Van Hovenberg accompany Chief Wood to the train and explain the situation. The demented soldier was taken on to New York as a result.

While the train was in Kingston one of the selective service men deserted. His description was furnished the police, but they were unable to locate him. The description was a very meager one. The deserter was said to live in Fulton county.

The six city hall workers who visited the vaccine station and were inoculated the other day went back this afternoon for another treatment. They all report no ill effects.

Officer John K. Daun reported sick this morning.

A number of cases of the Larkin Company came up in city court this morning and all were adjourned until November 22.

The epidemic seems to have some influence among those usually arrested for minor crimes, and they are either ill or remaining at home, for no arrests have been made by the police in several days.

With the death of Officer O'Neil and the resignation of Officer Legg, who is now working at his trade as plumber, there are two vacancies on the police force.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, Oct. 24.—In accordance with the requirements of the board of health laws, there will not be any service in the Methodist Church on Sunday next, October 27. To some this may seem unnecessary, but as several severe (and in two instances fatal) cases of influenza have developed in this village during the past week it behooves everyone to exercise caution in every way possible.

Mrs. Melissa Jones of New York city recently visited her brother, Alfred Terpening, at his home in this village.

Leslie E. Mott, with S. E. Mott's motor truck, moved the household goods of Duncan Beaten of West Esopus to Weehawken, N. J., on Monday of this week. Mr. Mott was accompanied by Gould Ganoung.

Miss Dorothy Fuchs has been engaged to assist in sewing at the dressmaking establishment of Miss Jarrold of Kingston, going each day by the 6:18 morning train and returning at 4:29 p. m.

Miss Hattie Paulding of Kingston visited her sister, Mrs. William McLain, also her aunt, Mrs. Alfred Terpening, on Thursday of last week. Miss Paulding appeared to be in the best of health but on Monday afternoon of this week Mrs. McLain was summoned to her bedside and she has ever since been very ill with influenza. All hope for her speedy recovery.

We are glad to state that Jack Hadley, who has been ill with influenza, has nearly recovered his usual health.

TWELVE AMERICANS BACK IN THE LINES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army North-west of Verdun, Oct. 25 (Noon).—Twelve Americans, who were cut off for three days in No Man's Land, returned today to their command bringing valuable information concerning the location of enemy batteries.

Suffering from lack of food and from exposure, the twelve men concealed themselves in shell holes and craters and repulsed violent attacks from several enemy raiding parties. In spite of the natural hardships and the imminent danger of being killed or captured the members of the squads made observations and noted minute details concerning the enemy batteries, and they made their way back to the American lines.

Crown Council Held.

PARIS PAPERS COMMENT ON PEACE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Oct. 25.—"We must have an opportunity to establish an European order of peace that will last for generations," said the Echo de Paris today.

The Echo de Paris is usually a closely informed newspaper and in its comment it outlined the course that the Entente nations probably will take in regard to the peace situation. It continued:

"We must leave nothing to chance when we discuss the future of peace. Washington's discussions with Berlin are purely military and not carried on through the usual diplomatic channels. The terms of Germany's capitulation should be fixed by Marshal Foch, Field Marshal Haig, General Pershing and the British admiralty."

"President Wilson's note means revolution or capitulation," said the Journal.
The Homme Libre (Premier Clemenceau's paper) declared that the Entente will place themselves solely upon military ground.

"It is up to the German military chiefs to say yes or no," added this paper. "The conditions of an armistice dictated by Marshal Foch are already known and ready to be set forth."
"An armistice is inadmissible unless it gives us the same results as victory," said the Matin. "All reports show that Germany is incapable of long resistance owing to the lack of materials and munitions. In this crisis the Germans find themselves without reserves to sustain a long battle or to make a big attack. The morale in their rear has been wrecked and the morale at the front is very bad. The Austro-Hungarian collapse may induce Max (the German chancellor) to go farther than the original criminal. There is no advantage in his present conditions."

800 WOMEN NEEDED BY SALVATION ARMY

Commander Evangeline Booth Says War Relief Work Must Be Extended.

Commander Evangeline Booth, leader of the Salvation Army in the United States, has been suddenly called upon to furnish 800 additional war work women for France. The request is contained in a report just received by her from Col. William A. Barker of the Salvationist forces, whom she sent to France over a year ago to establish hutment and general war relief work with the American troops.

"We will do all we can to fill this demand," said Commander Booth when discussing the approaching United War Work Campaign, "and the need itself should impress the American public all the more with the absolute necessity for sustaining and enlarging the war relief work of the seven organizations, besides the noble Red Cross, now merged for a drive for funds. Each is a vital cog in a vast machine for human relief, and each is indispensable, serving its particular elements in its own way."

"The Salvation Army was born in hardship, reared in privation and trained to every phase of human misery and how to cope with it. Perhaps that accounts in some degree for the success our work has attained and for which we are thankful."

"We are of the common people, and we toil on a practical basis. We learned the lesson of how to do it in the Boer war, when we stood at the side of Britain's troops and weathered it out to the end. We have been tried by fire, and the mothers and fathers of America, as in other countries, trust the Salvation Army to do the thing they would like to do for their men if they but had the chance."

With 1,210 trained workers at the front, operating from 420 huts and dugouts, the Salvation Army is doing, has done and will continue to do its best for the cause of humanity and Liberty."

MADE FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

British Army Deserter Showed Daring and Originality in Making His Escape From Prison.

Three daring escapes made by a British army deserter with ten convictions against him—all for crimes of violence—were described at Oldstreet a few days ago, relates London Chronicle. The man, George Mullins, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in January, 1917, and was sent to Wandsworth. There he was trained for the army and taken to France in handcuffs. In a few weeks he contrived to get leave and, returning to England, deserted. He was arrested last April, but, although handcuffed, he escaped from his escort. After a brief spell of liberty Mullins was again captured, and with five others was put in the guardroom at Wandsworth prison. While the others danced and sang at the top of their voices Mullins cut a hole in the wall and all the six escaped. In the following May the man was again arrested, and taken this time to Bethnal Green police station, where he was placed in a newly built cell. Again he managed to escape by loosening a number of bricks, climbing through a ventilator and dropping down a water pipe into the street. The other night Mullins was arrested by Detective Sharp in Stepney. A big and violent crowd, the officer said, gathered and pelted the detective and his colleagues with stones, weights, coal bottles and "anything they could lay their hands on."

The police, however, got away. Mullins is now sentenced to two months' hard labor as a deserter and for damaging Bethnal Green police station.

EPIGRAM THAT HAS FORCE

Terse Statement as to Value of Man in the World's Commercial Operations.

There is a moral for all who will seek it in the story of a Minnesota banker, who has made a success of life notwithstanding the handicap that both legs, his left arm and the fingers of his right hand are missing. His career was appropriately reviewed in Carry On, a magazine published in the interest of the reconstruction of disabled soldiers and sailors.

The essence of this man's success is contained in his whimsical statement of his philosophy. "From his neck down," he says, "a man is worth about a dollar and a half a day; from his neck up he may be worth a hundred thousand dollars a year."

The facts of this statement apply as forcibly to a man with all his limbs as to a cripple. They constitute the chief reason why vocational education is increasing in popularity and why child labor and compulsory education laws are being made increasingly severe.

It is a fortunate epigram which has been made by this cripple of peace for the benefit of the cripples of war. The part of the man "from the neck up" knows no limitations except self-imposed ones.—Portland Oregonian.

German Use of Red Cross.

With the British Army on the Western Battle Front, Oct. 25.—A German Red Cross wagon loaded with ammunition was captured by the British this morning. The carriage of munitions in an ambulance is a flagrant violation of the Hague convention. It has been found that the Germans used a huge asylum outside of Lille as an aviation station. It was marked with two enormous red crosses.

Victory On Serbian Front.

London, Oct. 25.—Following a three-day battle the Austro-Germans on the Serbian front have been thrown back and are now retreating in great disorder towards the Danube river, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch today.

Means Nothing to Her.

"There's a thing that's troubling me," remarked Mr. Gifford.
"Tell me your concern," said Mr. Gifford's clerk.

"Why is it that when the average married woman starts out to teach her husband how to economize she begins by telling him to quit smoking?"

"That question is easy to answer. It's because the average married woman doesn't smoke."

BRITISH OFFICIAL VIEW OF WAR WORK

American Soldiers Overseas to be Shown in Miles of Movie Film. What They and Their Comrades Are Doing.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Oct. 15.—(By Mail.)—To General Pershing belongs the credit of showing to the soldiers of the American Expeditionary Forces their own activities through the medium of motion pictures. By miles of news film made on the spot the various "actors" in this greatest drama will be able to see what the men in distant sectors are doing and what they themselves look like when practicing the art of war-making.

The newest film news service to be famous as the Overseas Weekly and is to be released twice a week, showing in every Y. M. C. A. hut as the latest of the many friendly acts of the seven service organizations combined in the United War Work Campaign. Paris will be headquarters of the news film and Homer Crox of New York will direct operations.

The American Army is now scattered throughout the length and breadth of France. The Yanks in the trenches and the reserves formation a part of the immense force that has come overseas and is increasing daily. There are engineering units building railways and docks and the companies of lumbermen are busy in isolated portions of rural France felling trees and converting them into board feet against the needs of the army. Large numbers of men in olive drab are quartered in every large city from the front lines to the base ports, handling supplies of every description. The base ports themselves are now almost American cities, with miles of docks and warehouses and railway yards.

The men in the service of supply, as the army designates the forces behind the lines, are apt to feel that their work is not appreciated by the soldiers in front. To think that they are out of the picture. Their idea of warfare in the trenches is gained only through hearsay. Similarly, the fighting men are curious about their brethren who are busy about a steady stream of food, ammunition and clothing pouring into the front serve warehouses just behind the lines. If the work of the various units that comprise the great American Army is visualized on the screen this state of affairs will largely be remedied.

The Overseas Weekly plans to release two films a week, which will be shown in every Y. M. C. A. hut in France. One reel will depict the activities of the Yanks in France; the other will record events in America that will show what the folks at home are doing to back up the boys "over here."

Every member of the A. E. F. from cook to general, will know from week to week exactly what the American nation is doing to win the war.

Homer Crox of New York heads the new organization. Mr. Crox has a reputation as a writer as well as a producer of excellent films. He was connected with the Kansas City Star, Leslie's Weekly and the Delinquent for some years, and founded and edited the Magazine Maker of New York.

NO MORE COMFORT KITS OVERSEAS

New Orders Sent Out to Red Cross Chapter at Request of General Pershing Limit Supplies to Soldiers.

Two announcements affecting soldiers were made at the headquarters of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross yesterday.

One was to the effect that Red Cross chapter workers throughout the country had been requested to discontinue the direct distribution of drafted men of limited articles made from materials provided by the Red Cross. The limited supply of yarn and the necessity of preventing duplication in the distribution of the articles are responsible for the suggestion. The yarn on hand, it is pointed out, is sufficient to provide for the requirements of the foreign relief and military relief departments. Red Cross representatives of the camps and cantonments, will distribute the limited articles among the soldiers from now on.

The second announcement states that as a result of an order issued by the general staff of the army at the request of General Pershing, baggage of soldiers going overseas, the Red Cross has decided to end its distribution of comfort kits to the men in the training camps. Practically all articles contained in the Red Cross comfort kit can be obtained by the men in the camps and cantonments in the United States. The rapid movement of troops to France and the limited amount of shipping space on transports for the necessary equipment which the soldiers must carry with them prompted General Pershing to make the request.

The war department has issued a definite list of the personal articles which the men may take with him. The Red Cross will, however, be able to arrange for shipment overseas, through the regular freight channels, of a large quantity of commonly used articles. It has been decided to make such shipments because it is felt that under conditions existing over there Red Cross kits provide an additional comfort for the men which is really appreciated.

Call around. Let us tell you of this boiler's economy points.

LETTERS FROM HOME BETTER THAN PAY

McGrath Received the Letter But Not the Former—Still Has His Comfort Kit Although He Was in Big Drive.

Private Michael McGrath writes his father, James McGrath, of No. 10 Smith avenue, this city, as follows:

On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Force Monday, Sept. 16, 1918.

Dear Dad and Sister: I suppose you will be surprised to hear from me, but I haven't had much time to write. I am some busy boy now. Am in the best of health and feeling fine. I suppose you read in the paper about the big drive the American boys made on the Germans. It is true, and believe me it was some drive. We landed twenty thousand Germans and sure did give them hell, and still chasing them. I was right by the big guns the night they started. I was a little shaky at first, but didn't mind after we got in it. I will have to stop now. (Back). Was out with the truck about 5 miles back to a little town for some canned Willie head. I am close behind the third line trenches now and the flares are sending over some big shells. I can hear them sing but don't strike any where near me. Our big guns are sending them back some of the same medicine. We sure have some great gunners, hit the mark every time. We took . . . in this drive. They claimed we could take it in twenty-four hours but we surprised them and took it in three, going some isn't it? This was the sector where the French lost 32,000, they held it for 18 minutes a couple of years ago. The Germans were on the hill, they had it set with mines; but we turned 22 big guns and took them, mines, hill and all.

I am in a town now where the Germans were last week. The Hunns had some French women and children that they had captured four years ago and held them until now, when the Sammie boys turned them loose. I wish you could see them coming back in our big motor trucks, they sure were a happy bunch. The Sammie boys are sending them back some now, capturing four and five hundred at a time. Some of our boys are running around with German officers' hats on and canes. We have field glasses and all kinds of pistols that we took from the Germans. You often heard of a "Hun's Cat" I slept that curve in my truck the night before the big drive and I drive over No Man's Land every day. You see we have to supply the boys with cats and have to keep right up with them.

The Hunns had their dug-outs fixed up in great shape with concrete. I guess they expected to stay a while. But they left everything behind; they didn't have time to take anything with them. We have some old-fashioned carriage wheels on our trucks. Our boys are made them sing out with that comrades stuff. They are a bunch of cowards; they fight with one hand up shouting comrades and shoot with the other.

I sure think we will be home for Christmas as we have certainly stamped the German's surrender for them.

I was back to my company yesterday and they had a bunch of mail but none for me. I haven't had only one letter since I have been here and that was from Kate.

I got paid yesterday, but would rather have a letter from home as we don't get a pay for every day. I have been here for three days writing this letter. I will get time to finish now just had supper and ate 10 doughnuts, the first meal I had today. I generally take three in one. Had two hours sleep last night but it looks good for a sleep tonight.

It sure is a busy place where I am now guns barking all the time. I was in a gas attack the other night but it was slight and my gas mask was in good shape. The only trouble was I had a big chew of pipe tobacco in my mouth and had to take off my mask to get it out. Before me I made it out in three weeks (what), who said I was crummy? But I did begin to feel that way. I still have the little bag that the Red Cross gave me when I left Kingston. I lost it out of my truck last night but one of the fellows found it and returned it to me. I had to try to get it to it and to me it back with me when I come home.

I am sending you two francs of French money, just for a souvenir; one of them is worth 75 cents in American money. I think it is time I quit now. Hope dad and all are well. I am in the best of health and happy. Your loving son and brother.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The community cannot rise much above the level of the individual home, and the home rises only by the pull of the community regulations or by the initiative of a few especially far-sighted individuals.—Ellen Richards

IDEAS FOR THE COOK.

Before the sweet corn is gone do not fail to prepare some for winter use. Pick it and husk it and cut it from the cob within an hour from the time it has been growing; then if it is to be dried stir it over the heat for a few minutes to set the milk, then put it to dry as usual. If it is to be canned, boil it for five minutes on the cob, then dip in cold water and drain, cut from the cob and pack into jars; into each put a teaspoonful of salt to a quart, can and fill the remaining space with boiling water. Seal tightly, so that the jar may be handled without loosening the cover. Perhaps a better way is to seal it tight, then turn back a quarter way round; this leaves the jar so that air may escape into the boiler and keep the pressure inside and out. Have a boiler with a wooden rack in the bottom to hold up the jars and cover them to the depth of an inch over the top of the highest jar. Count the time of cooking only when the water is boiling and cook three hours, adding 10 to 15 minutes longer for two-quart cans. Remove and seal tightly.

Cordts's White Building

J. E. GRAHAM

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1918.

Sun rises, 7:23; sets, 6:05.
Weather, cloudy.

The Temperature.

The lowest point registered by the Freeman thermometer last night was 40 degrees. The highest point reached up until noon today was 57 degrees.

Weather Forecast.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Probably rain tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight in north portion and in north and west portions Saturday; moderate southerly winds, becoming west.

LAST NIGHT'S WAR NEWS REVIEWED

British troops advancing over a wide front between the Scheidt river and the Sambre-et-Oise canal have captured nine more villages and are approaching Le Quesnoy (nine miles south of Valenciennes) and the Mormal forest (seven miles west of the fortress of Maubeuge). All of Raimonville, 17 miles west of Mons, is now in British hands. More crossings have been forced on the Escaut river. The Germans have been making stiff resistance but their counter attacks are crushed as soon as launched.

French troops on the east side of the Oise canal have made new progress. On the Le Caton front, near the American Argonne-Meuse front, heavy artillery duels have been raging.

Forest fighting has marked the operations of the Americans during the past 36 hours. Despite German resistance, progress has been made on both sides of the Meuse river, during which Belleau wood was captured and d'Estray Wood and Waville Wood were penetrated. Violent artillery duels have been raging all along the American front.

The German war office admits a retirement in the lowlands bordering the Lys river, on the Flanders battle front. The Germans emphasize the violence of the American assaults that are being launched on the Meuse river front.

Skinners Waive Examination.

William Skinner and wife, Sally, the young negro pair arrested Tuesday evening at Highland Falls on suspicion of having taken $260 from Captain William L. Lick at Goldrick's Landing, were taken Thursday afternoon before Justice of the Peace DeGiacco at East Kingston and arraigned for a hearing on a charge of larceny. They were accompanied by Sheriff Smith and Deputy Seth Jockelyn. After being told of their rights and that they were entitled to counsel, etc., they were asked to plead to the charge, and they waived examination to have the matter investigated by the next grand jury. Captain Lick now thinks he was given knockout drops by the woman, with whom he had been drinking on the Tuesday afternoon when he alleges the money was taken. Skinner and the woman were brought back and placed in jail.

LATEST PAPER ON INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

State Health Department Issues a Statement Giving Symptoms, Treatment and Precautions to be Observed.

The latest official statement by Dr. Bliss, of the State Health Department, in reference to the influenza epidemic contains a number of new points in reference to symptoms and treatment. It is as follows:

Epidemic influenza is a highly communicable disease caused by a very minute disease germ known as the influenza bacillus. The inciting organisms of the disease are present in enormous numbers in the discharges from the nose and throat of those ill with the disease, and the disease is spread by the transfer of these germs, directly or indirectly, to the nose or throat of others, by coughing or sneezing, or by kissing on the mouth, or shaking hands, or the use of common towels, drinking cups, improperly cleaned eating and drinking utensils or other objects which are handled in common.

The epidemic now prevailing closely resembles that which occurred in 1889-1890 (then commonly known as the Russian grippe), and which spread throughout the entire world. The use of the term "Spanish" in the present epidemic is unfortunate and has served to create the impression that a new and especially dreadful disease has appeared.

Epidemic influenza, while rarely of itself fatal, has a remarkable faculty of paving the way for the introduction of other secondary disease germs (especially pneumococci and streptococci) which in a certain proportion of cases produce bronchitis and pneumonia (very frequently of the broncho-pneumonic type), pleurisy, and other serious complications. The death rate from the secondary pneumonias which occur may be roughly estimated at about 20 per cent. The majority of such secondary pneumonias occur in young adult life, between the ages of 15 and 35.

The Course of the Disease.

The onset of typical cases is sudden and accompanied by a rapid rise of temperature varying from 102 to 105 degrees and by severe pains throughout the body, especially in the head, back and extremities. There is usually more or less redness of the conjunctivae with watering eyes and a rather profuse nasal discharge. The throat may be practically normal or slightly or markedly reddened. The pulse in proportion to the temperature is characteristically slow in uncomplicated cases; when complications develop the pulse immediately increases in frequency. A dry cough is usually present due to tracheo-bronchitis and at first is dry, aggravating and without expectoration; it is apt to last for some days after the fall of the temperature. The acute symptoms usually last for three or four days, the temperature falling rather rapidly on the second to fourth day. Digestive symptoms, with vomiting and diarrhea, may usher in the disease or accompany the other symptoms. Relapses are not infrequent. The disease is often accompanied or followed by great prostration and the patient is left in a weakened condition, and convalescence is slow.

Atypical Cases.

During an epidemic of influenza a very large number of persons suffer with what appear to be ordinary colds with slight fever and general malaise followed by a dry cough. Probably many of these are abortive cases of influenza, the patient being relatively resistant to the action of the organism. Such persons are apparently immune to the more severe attacks but are able to transmit the disease in a severe form to others.

Susceptibility.

There is reason to believe that an attack of influenza confers a more or less permanent and complete immunity on the individual affected. It is not possible to say at the present time how long such immunity lasts. Persons in the later periods of life seem to be relatively immune from the severe types of the disease, possibly because they were affected with the disease in the previous epidemic or subsequent to it.

Prevention.

From what has been said of the causative and spread of influenza the means of control are obvious. Spitting in public places or on the sidewalk or on the doors of public buildings or conveyances is forbidden by the sanitary code of the state of New York and is a misdemeanor. The public health council has recently passed a regulation making it also a misdemeanor to cough or sneeze without properly covering the nose and mouth. Unguarded coughing or sneezing are a much more ready means of spreading this and other communicable disease of the respiratory tract than spitting. Local health officers should warn the people of their respective communities to this effect and should see that this new regulation is enforced.

Attendants on influenza cases and other persons after contact with them, should wash their hands thoroughly with soap and hot water. Physicians and nurses are advised to wear gauze masks over the nose and mouth when in attendance on these patients; these should be kept clean and removed and sterilized frequently. Persons suffering from influenza should be confined if possible to their own rooms, and other members of the family should not enter unless necessary, and then only with proper precautions. Handkerchiefs, towels and towels should be properly disinfected, or better, clothes or paper napkins employed to receive the discharges and these should be burned. Dishes and eating utensils should be kept separate and should be boiled before used by others.

When the disease appears in a community the local health officer should warn the people to avoid crowded places. Public functions should be forbidden and because of the danger of infection from the use of handkerchiefs, but because of the danger of infection from the people who assemble. So far as possible the suspension of public conveyances should be kept open and regulations put in force to prevent traffic congestion. Generally it is advisable to close places of amusement, especially movies and theaters.

While theoretically it would be desirable to strictly quarantine every case of influenza, it is not possible to do so because of the difficulties in the diagnosis of the mild cases and the large number of cases which very rapidly develop in a community. Within the household, however, it is possible in many instances to effectively separate the sick from the well.

Treatment.

At the present time it is not definitely known whether influenza vaccines are effective or not in the prevention of this disease. It is hoped that such vaccines properly prepared from killed influenza bacilli, inoculated in the same general way as is done in the case of vaccine for typhoid fever, may prove of value. The intervals between the inoculations, however, should be seven or more, as in the case in typhoid fever. It has been proven that these vaccines properly administered do not produce any considerable reaction. A number of solutions have been recommended for use in the throat and nose, but it is impossible to say whether they are of real service. There is no specific treatment for the disease.

The great essential for anyone who develops symptoms of influenza is to at once go to bed in a well ventilated room, with sufficient bed covering, and to remain there until the symptoms have disappeared. Certain coal tar products may be used under a physician's direction to alleviate the symptoms, especially the pain and headache. These remedies may have but little effect on the temperature and are often depressing and should not be used recklessly by the laity. The pulse is frequently weak during the attack and heart stimulants may be required. The bowels should be moved freely at the beginning of the disease and kept open subsequently. The diet should be confined to fluids during the course of the fever and plenty of water should be given. Patients within a household or hospital who develop signs of pneumonia or have especially aggravated sore throats should be immediately removed from contact with other influenza patients, as there is grave danger of complications spreading. The irritating and nagging cough very frequently require the use of some sedative cough mixture. Croup for bronchitis, when it has reached a sub-acute stage, will prove of value.

Pneumonia.

When this develops the physician in attendance should make every effort to determine the type of pneumonia present by sending a specimen of fresh sputum in a clean bottle to the nearest laboratory equipped for making a differential diagnosis. The State Laboratory in Albany is prepared to take all specimens of this kind. If the laboratory reports that the pneumonia is of Type I, arrangements should be made immediately to administer the serum which may be obtained at the State Department of Health Laboratory.

Earnestness Welcome.

One gets very tired of chatter sometimes. And when someone comes who is thoughtful, who is earnest, who talks that he may reveal something worth while, because he has some treasure through which the world may profit, then what a difference. How the mind throws off its staleness and freshness under the wind that cuts, maybe, as it heals. How the soul refreshes itself, how the heart takes courage and the spirit rises to meet the message.—Exchange.
